News

New Lasting Power of Attorney (LPA) forms laid in Parliament

New draft LPA forms were laid in Parliament on 15 July; they should be ready for use on 1st October 2009.

Users told us that the existing forms were too long, too complicated and solicitor's fees to help complete them were very expensive. Our own experience showed that too many forms were being returned because of errors, and the design of the forms could be improved.

Following on from the public consultation, Reviewing the Mental Capacity Act: forms, supervision and fees, and from workshops involving customers, stakeholders and OPG staff, the LPA forms have been redesigned:

- To be more streamlined with no tick boxes
- In plainer English, and
- To include completion guidance notes in the margins of the forms.

In-depth user testing with a representative sample of LPA form users has also taken place to ensure that the redesigned forms meet the needs of key customer groups.

While there is no further opportunity for consultation or comment on the new forms, we are confident that the new LPA forms will better meet people's needs.

Research

As part of the OPG and Public Guardian's commitment to continuous improvement of our services and our pledge to keep the Customer at the heart of our business, the MCA Implementation Review Project (RMIP) will be commissioning research into understanding the impact of the legislation. Understanding how it is perceived and used in practice, will give us a better idea of how to improve supporting services.

There are two key pieces of research, one looking at the wider impact of the MCA on society and one looking at best interests decision making in complex cases. More information about the latter will be included in a subsequent newsletter.

Wider impact of the MCA

The research into the wider impact of the MCA will explore the extent of and gaps in awareness of the Mental Capacity Act and Code of Practice among a variety of stakeholder groups and the general public. It will also explore how people dealing with those who lack capacity have interpreted the principles of the Act.

We have an encompassing method to understanding (good and bad) practical examples of how this awareness and interpretation has influenced the outcome of decision-making behaviours on behalf of those who may lack capacity.

The information from this research will be used to help the OPG:

- Explore understanding, and generate ideas to help cater to the needs of those who lack capacity
- Draw conclusions and possibly provide baseline indicators against which to measure change and success in the future
- Help identify areas for improvement to ensure that our stakeholders receive the best possible service available

The research is scheduled to begin in Autumn 2009 with the findings to be reported to the OPG by the end of April 2010. Once interpreted and evaluated, the findings and recommendations will be published by the end of the year.

Court of Protection

11th Floor Archway Tower

Safeguarding Vulnerable Adults Policy

The OPG has a general responsibility for safeguarding vulnerable adults; this responsibility is set out in the OPG Safeguarding Vulnerable Adults Policy. As well as formally investigating concerns that are raised about Deputies and Attorneys, the OPG must ensure that concerns that are outside of the Public Guardian's jurisdiction (e.g. relating to unregistered EPAs) are properly signposted to the correct agency so that the concern is addressed. The OPG has a protocol agreement with Local Authorities enabling us to exchange information in certain circumstances to protect vulnerable adults from abuse.

Information regarding the OPG's safeguarding role, the Policy document and our Protocol agreement with Local Authorities can be obtained from the OPG website at:

<http://www.publicguardian.gov.uk/concerns/concerns.htm>

Compliance & Regulation at the OPG

The Public Guardian also has authority under the Mental Capacity Act to deal with representations (including complaints) about the way in which an attorney with a registered Lasting or Enduring Power of Attorney, or a Deputy appointed by the Court, is exercising their powers. The Public Guardian's powers relate to both Finance/Property and Health/Welfare Deputies and Attorneys.

The OPG Compliance and Regulation Unit conducts enquiries on behalf of the Public Guardian when a concern is raised. This includes obtaining bank statements and healthcare records relating to a customer, commissioning a visit or interviewing Deputies/Attorneys and liaising with other agencies. The investigator then reports to the Public Guardian with recommendations as to what action, if any, the Public Guardian should take. Recommended action can include making an application to the Court of Protection for the removal of the Deputy/Attorney, increasing the level of supervision assigned to a Deputy and/or referring matters to other agencies (e.g. the Police) for further investigation.

Concerns can be raised in writing to the Compliance and Regulation Unit or by telephone to 0207 664 7734.

Change to the rate of interest paid on funds held in Court

From 1 July 2009 interest paid on funds held in the Court Fund Office (CFO) special accounts and basic accounts changed to a new rate. The interest rate is paid at a rate of 0.5% for the special account and 0.3% for the basic account.

Letters have been sent out to all special account holders to notify them of the change to the special account rate and CFO's website has been updated <http://www.courtfunds.gov.uk/> and http://www.courtfunds.gov.uk/cfo/investments\_interest.htm.

High praise for British Sign Language (BSL) DVD about the Mental Capacity Act 2005

At the British Society for Mental Health and Deafness Conference, services and professionals in this field gave positive feedback about the value of the BSL DVD regarding the MCA, produced through a joint project involving the OPG and the RNID.

The social workers at the conference expressed how they felt the DVD was particularly clear for the deaf with high quality signing, and praised the OPG for undertaking this work with RNID.

If you require copies of the DVD, please contact the OPG Customer Contact Centre:
